

Biofuels International Expo and Conference to Feature Agrisoma President and CEO

Saskatoon, SK September 26, 2011 – As a recognized leader in the burgeoning biofuel sector, Agrisoma Biosciences Inc. President and CEO Steven Fabijanski will be speaking at the upcoming Biofuels International Expo and Conference being held in Calgary, Alberta, on October 3rd and 4th, 2011. Fabijanski will be the lead presenter on Day 2 in the biofuel stream, providing an overview of Brassica carinata (“Carinata”), a feedstock crop uniquely suited for biojet and biodiesel fuel production.

“The convergence of industry and government biofuel mandates and the commercialization of next-generation biofuel sources has brought this sector to an unprecedented stage of growth and opportunity,” says Fabijanski. “Events such as this Expo are critical to its continued advancement and to connecting policy, research, development, and private and public sector goals.”

Fabijanski brings a wealth of experience to the biofuel sector, boasting more than 20 years as a senior executive within the agriculture and biotechnology industries. He is Chair of the Agriculture Committee of Biotech Canada, a member of the Board of Directors for AgWest Bio, and sits on the NSERC Energy Committee and NRC Advisory Committee. Fabijanski is also an active participant in the Biotech Canada lobby efforts at the federal level.

As head of Agrisoma, Fabijanski has been concentrating on the commercialization of Carinata as an energy feedstock crop. Utilizing its proprietary crop improvement technology, Agrisoma is engineering Carinata lines that deliver enhanced yield of a uniform, high quality oil, which is an ideal source of sustainable and economically viable biofuel.

The Biofuels International Expo and Conference two-day program attracts companies and individuals involved in biofuel production and plant operation, policy developers, researchers, CEOs and senior managers. The event offers industry professionals the opportunity to present to delegates their current projects and products. For more information visit <http://www.biofuelsinternationalexpo.com/#>
